

Ben Mugisha

In 2008, The Ben became Rwanda's first music superstar with his breakout R&B hit, Amaso Ku Maso. After that auspicious beginning, Since then, his reputation has grown with a series of award winning R&B songs and albums. An invitation to perform at the 2010 World Cup in Johannesburg, South Africa further burnished his celebrity status the trajectory of his music career continued to rise as one new hit replaced another. He was recognized as Best R&B Singer of the Year at the prestigious Salax Music Awards in 2008-2009. In 2009-2010 he again received the award for Best R&B Singer of the Year as well as the country's top music prize, Best Male Artist, 2010-2011 Song The Ben received a Salax Award song of the year Subsequent to moving to the United States in 2010, he collaborated with Detroit based Mike-E Ellison, Hip Hop and spoken word recording artist, on yet another #1 hit in Rwanda, Turikumwe. link Working with PressOne Entertainment, he has produced two new music videos—I'm in Love and the Rwandan gospel favorite, Nzarimba Igitangaza. The popularity of I'm in Love, released in October 2012, led to the creation of a new music category at the 2012 Salax Music Award Presentations in Rwanda. The Ben is the first ever recipient of Award for Best Music Artist in the Diaspora. PressOne is thrilled to have The Ben onboard.