

Showcase the work of your institution at the

IAU 2017 INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE

About the Conference

Hosted by the University of Ghana, the IAU 2017 International Conference will focus on the impacts on higher education leadership of the shifting HE landscape that results from the blurring of the notion of public and private.

This new reality that mixes public and private higher education, at times in one and the same institution, can raise fundamental questions about the goals and purposes of higher education for the individual, for the nation and for society.

These changes taking place in most higher education systems world-wide, albeit in different degrees, bring new demands and new challenges for the institutional leadership at all levels. IAU invites the participants to critically examine the extent to which these changes may be redefining the role of the higher education leader.

Plan to attend and take part in the discussions!
